

Increasing security

for complete peace of mind

Background

Clearway Services were tasked with increasing car park security at a business park which housed several businesses. One business worked long hours and staff were often in the office from 7am til 7pm weekdays and over the weekend, and had concerns about feeling secure in deserted locations after dark and during daylight hours.

Another business was worried for the security of their company vehicles and needed to ensure they wouldn't be stolen, vandalised or broken into when left overnight or at weekends.

Solution

Following an initial risk assessment an inView CCTV Tower was immediately deployed and erected in a very visible position within the car park. The tower arrived equipped with solar power capability, and was able to recharge its own batteries during daylight hours. The car park now also benefitted from remote monitoring provided by our NSI Gold II Alarm Receiving Centre (ARC) for 24/7 coverage.

“There’s nothing more creepy than a large abandoned business park at night, especially on a damp, dark winter’s evening. Even a short walk from my office to my car can be scary when the whole place is deserted because everyone else has gone home, and you unexpectedly hear a strange noise, or someone unfamiliar suddenly appears, and approaches you...”

Outcome

The tower offered an extremely visible deterrent against any criminal behaviour so the concerns of staff who had to walk alone to and from their vehicles were instantly allayed.

This security solution also provided around the clock protection for any company vehicles left overnight or at weekends, and no incidents were reported following installation.

Many legitimate visitors felt a little disconcerted when their presence caused an activation accompanied by an automated spoken voice message to inform them that live CCTV was active and recording. However, once inside the building and the purpose explained as being for their own safety and security, they often commented how they wished more car parks offered the same protection as provided by Clearway.
